GREAT THRONGS CROWD IMMENSE TABERNACLE

JUANITA MILLER, BARD'S DAUGHTER, WEDS

Ceremony Was Conducted According to the Old Druid Customs—Glamorous Outdoor Party—Weird and Dramatic—Indian Dancing Maids

WEDDING IS CELEBRATED AT "THE HIGHTS"

Affair Attracted Wide Attention and Was Attended by About Five Hundred—Guests Classed in Two Groups, "Passionals" and "Intellectuals"

OAKLAND, Cal., April 23.—"Circles are circles, from white heaven to hell. "Perfection is knowledge that all is well.

"But the heart of him is good enough for me."

With these ecstatic words on her lips, as "Juan" slipped the gold band on her finger, Juanita Miller, daughter of the famous California bard, Joaquin Miller, was this afternoon wedded to John or "Juan," her "lily love," at her home here, "The Hights."

The ceremony was conducted according to the old Druid customs, a glamorous outdoor party, weird and dramatic. There was no best man and the bridesmaids were Indian "dancing maids." Juanita had originally planned the wedding for midnight in the glow of the full moon, but recently discovered that Indians worshipped the sun rather than the moon, hence the time of the ceremony was changed.

The scene of the wedding at "The Hights," which overlooks Oakland, seven other cities and five counties, and is ideally seclusive, was in the woods surrounding her home. The air was brisk and slightly chilly, but Juanita, in her scant wedding gown, was warmed by a huge Indian blanket, draped from the shoulders of Juan.

The affair had attracted wide attention and was attended by 500 guests. Those arriving early were entertained by the wife of the famous old poet, who explained how Joaquin had lived a "simple but high-thinking life."

Juanita classed her guests into two groups—passionals and intellectuals. To the passionals she gave red lights and to the intellectuals amber lights.

When a baby, Juanita related in poetry, her life was destined to be a cycle of "color" periods. She has experienced every period except the "white" episode, which she began today following her wedding.

All of the other periods, including the "red" episode of an unsuccessful wedding, three years ago, which resulted in divorce, have been complete failures. The ceremony, in four episodes, started with the unheralded return of Juan, her original love, finding Juanita in a state of "death." He kissed her, bringing her back to life. Surprised to see her lover, she consented to be his wife and wedde him immediately.

The wedding scene was a picture. Juan, clad in a white flannel suit, looked like a statue. He is tall and of an athletic build, has snappy blue eyes and curly hair. Juanita, with her "Billy Burke" smile, was charming.

She wore a chiffon dress of tear pearls and a veil which had belonged to her father's mother. On her head was a wreath of lilies, significant of the pure white union.

Following the wedding Juan and Juanita went to their Indian village to live.

The setting included wigwams, crude tables, and the presence of three Indian maids, who did Indian dances with Juanita. Two freshly slain kids cooking over a fire added realism.

For the Indian scene, Juanita was clad in a slight frock of burlap. Juan appeared as a mighty warrior chief in fighting togs.

Juanita, to prove she was master of the culinary art, baked a corn cake for Juan, and gave him a drink of wine from a cocoanut shell.

But their life did not go as blissfully as it might. The eternal triangle arose. An Indian dancer, a vampire, appeared and tried to win the affections of Juan. She was about to succeed, when Juanita chased her away with a battleaxe and she and Juan lived happily forever after.

Asked whether or not she thought the "white" episode would be a happy one, Juanita replied:

"The cycle should now be complete. But who dares to even forecast what the angry fates have spun in the fabric of our lives? It is not for me to say—but I have hope and confidence."

The ceremony this afternoon was a confirmation of a legal ceremony which took place three months ago when Juan and Juanita were married by a justice of the peace at Redwood City.

WHO IS JOHN BROWN?

A story well worth reading has been written about Evangelist John Brown by Tom P. Morgan, which was published in an Eastern weekly of large circulation in 1919. In it the writer told of the beginnings of John Brown and how he became the evangelist he is today. Also he told of the great work he is doing for poor boys and girls through the school he has founded on a farm in the Ozarks at Siloam Springs, known as the John E. Brown College, the purpose of which is to help ambitious boys and girls to help themselves. At the date mentioned the property of the school consisted of 300 acres, together with a herd of Jersey cows, hogs, sheep and poultry, and the necessary buildings, farm implements, etc., estimated to be worth something over $60,000. The giver practically impoverished himself to establish this school, never doubting that when more was needed it would be forthcoming. His confidence was justified and gifts from far and near, pledges and indorsements have been pouring in ever since. "What do you want from Siloam Springs?" that town asked. "Your prayers, your confidence, your cooperation and $15,000 for current expenses, payable in three installments." answered the evangelist. The plan was laid before Banker Harrington of Siloam Springs. He found it sane and became chairman of the executive committee which financed the enterprise.

Speaking of the young people who are getting these advantages, Mr. Brown said, in the course of an interview: "I call them rich boys and girls for, while they haven't the money to educate themselves, they have—what young people of ample means sometimes lack—the will and ambition to work and strive and look forward and climb."

No student is admitted who is able to pay his way, because schools for young people of means are plentiful. The pupil is carefully studied to find out what he or she is best fitted for and, this being discovered, he is supplied with everything he needs to equip him for the chosen vocation. As explained by the evangelist, "we are not cutting the pupil to fit the school, but the school to fit the pupil."

When John E. Brown was converted at a Salvation Army meeting, led by Ensign Oleson and a little band of exhorters in an Arkansas community, he was a long, lank youth, working in a lime kiln at Rogers, Ark., by turns cracking with a sledge hammer the rocks that more experienced men had blasted out. The Brown family was numerous, and the proverbial wolf was said to have a standing engagement to howl at the door. His conversion meant a dedication to service and so, while he continued to pound the rocks by day, at night he pounded the drum of the Salvation Army unit as best he knew how. His development in the school of hard work, experience and service for the Master has been revealed in the bits of biography that slip out almost unawares in the course of his sermons when he wishes to enforce a point.

Siloam Springs is his home. and there his wife, his family, his school and all the interests of his life outside his evangelistic circuit center. Sincerity is written large on his every look and action. He has a fund of wit and humor which make for sanity and help him to get close to the people he strives to reach, but underneath the fun is a great earnestness.

DEMAS THE DESERTER TYPE OF BLACKSLIDER

Evangelist Brown Pictures Disloyalty to Jesus Christ as the Most Damnable Sin in the Sight of Heaven and Warns Against Temptations to Desert

IRONMONGER AND CHOIR SING FAMILIAR HYMNS

Possible Temptations of Demas Are Reviewed and Lesson Applied to the Present Age, With Its Love of Gold, Craze for Pleasure and Sins of the Flesh

By 7:30 o'clock Friday evening a big congregation that practically filled all the benches in the Tabernacle on Orange and Harvard streets was united in familiar hymns and gospel songs under the leadership of Otis Ironmonger and the big choir. Occasionally the director pitted the congregation against the choir or vice versa, but for the most part the singers were one. Then the invocation of the evening was made by Rev. C. M. Crist, and after that Evangelist Brown took charge. First he called for volunteer carpenters to assist in putting more benches into the auditorium and more ventilators. They were asked to come today after lunch, and several responded. He announced that "King David's Rathers" would be the theme of his Saturday night address and then announced the Sunday services, requesting the worshippers to bring their regular envelopes, which would be segregated and returned to their proper channels. Mr. Ironmonger sang "Oh, To Be Kept for Jesus" very beautifully, and then the preacher began his discourse, stating that he would exercise his privilege of changing his mind and would preach on a theme different from the one announced and taken from II Timothy, verses 5 to 10, wherein Paul exhorted Timothy to do his duty and warned him of his approaching end, saying: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness. Do thy diligence to come shortly unto me; for Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world." Said the preacher:

"I want you to notice the contrast. These heart-breaking contrasts are found everywhere in life. 'I have fought the good fight' is the triumphant cry of St. Paul, standing there at death's door, the chopping block at hand, the axe at hand, the grave at hand. 'I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course and I am going to the other side to get my crown. Demas, my coworker, who once stood by my side, hath forsaken me. He loved this present world.'

"I used to think that Paul in this short declaration had not been entirely just or charitable to his coworker. I said even though Demas had turned back and deserted to the armies of the black flag, it did seem he deserved something better than to be so cold-bloodedly dismissed from the ranks of the faithful. But St. Paul was not unjust, not uncharitable. He knew something of how black the sin was Demas had committed. The heavenly vision had come to Demas as it had come to St. Paul, and Demas in obedience to the heavenly vision had sworn entire allegiance as had St. Paul, and they had entered into a fight which they declared was to be fought to the death. In the hour of crisis, when the test time came, Demas had turned his back on his coworker, on Jesus Christ. He had gone back to the ranks of the enemy and St. Paul, realizing something of how black, how all but unpardonable that sin was, dismissed Demas from the roll of the faithful and from the church, with the announcement: 'Demas is gone.'

"Now I am going to talk to you for a while on a rather unusual subject in the pulpit and I may say a rather common subject in the pews.

MRS. C. L. MARLENEE HOSTESS TO SECTION

Mrs. Charles Lee Marlenee was hostess yesterday to the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, at her home, 301 South Central avenue. Mrs. Colin Cable was assistant hostess.

There was a short business session, during which the members voted to lend their assistance to the proper observance of Music Week in Glendale. Mrs. Cecil Frankel, state federation president, who was the guest of honor, gave a most inspiring address.

The Nevin quintet—Mmes. Charles Parker, Helen Graham Cole, A. M. Draper, Frank Arnold, with Mrs. L. M. Hagood at the piano—sang "The Flower Fete" in honor of the composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman. Mr. Cadman is the educational director of the federation and was to have been a guest at this meeting, had he returned from the east in time. As an encore the quintet gave Nevin's "My Rosary."

Godard's Barcarolle was played in such a pleasing manner by Mrs. Le Roy Bosserman that she was enthusiastically encored, responding graciously with a beautiful composition of her own "The Elf Dance."

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery read "Out Under the Stars," and responded to an appreciative encore with "The Mocking Bird." Mrs. Pendelton accompanied the readings on the piano.

Chopin's Polonaise in A flat was Mrs. Hagood's exquisite contribution to the program. She responded to an encore with Grieg's Papillion.

Nevin's Narcissus and "The Two Clocks" (Rogers), by the quartet closed this excellent program which was enjoyed by 60 members and their guests, among whom were the three presidents of the Eagle Rock music clubs.

Ice cream, cake and candy were served by the hostesses.

PRETTY RECEPTION FOR MRS. GOULD

An event of unusual interest was the celebration on Thursday afternoon of the 94th birthday of Mrs. Olive Gould at the home of her daughter, Mrs. I. E. Gould, 106 East Lomita avenue.

Masses of lovely roses lent their fragrance and their beauty to the adornment of the rooms where the hostess and the honor guest received those who came to share the afternoon's pleasures, bringing with them gifts for the happy "birthday child," whose zest of life and appreciation of its joys has been not one whit blunted by the days of sorrow and days of mirth that changeful Time must have meted out to her in the long years of her life.

Dainty refreshments were a feature of the pleasant afternoon, whose enjoyment was shared by Mrs. R. C. Dick, Mrs. F. Buchanan, Mrs. Flora Pixley, Mrs. Guy Pixley, Mrs. Kiefous, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Niles, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Bannister of Hollywood, the honor guest and the hostess.

Mrs. Gould, who has been the house-guest of her daughter for some time, will leave soon for her home in Iowa.

MRS. CHAPPIUS GIVEN A SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. Jessie Chappius was guest of honor at a delightful surprise luncheon in celebration of her birthday, which took place Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Ferry.

Those present besides the host and hostess were: Mmes. Catherine O'Brien, Carrie Schmitt, H. Strosser, Meyers, Daugherty, Hamilton, John Houle, Martha Gibson, John Landregan and Charles Rudel.

It was a four-course affair, the table being centered with roses and lilies. At the proper time Mrs. Chappius was presented with a gift from the assembled company in the shape of a set of beautiful hand-painted plates. Whist was the diversion of the afternoon, Mrs. John Houle winning high score.

JUNIOR MUSIC CLUB

A meeting of the Junior Music club will be held in the music room of the high school tonight at 8 o'clock. Fine program and refreshments.

PERMITS REACHING TOWARD $300,000

J. MacSwaner, who returned with his wife and child a few months ago from a year's visit in Kentucky, from which he returned by auto, taking a leisurely course through the northwest as far as Washington state, and then coming back to Glendale, satisfied that it was the best place on earth to live, still further showed his faith by purchasing a lot at 452 Milford and putting up a garage home. Now he is building a six-room residence on the front of the lot, to cost $3000. The permit was taken out this forenoon and it brought the April total to $276,968, and for the year thus far, to $1,091,968.

"GIRLS DON'T GAMBLE" AT GLENDALE THEATER

David Butler in "Girls Don't Gamble" begins a three-day run at the Glendale theater today.

Those who saw Mr. Butler in "Smiling All the Way" will hail this announcement with joy; nor will their pleasurable anticipations end in disappointment when they see "Girls Don't Gamble." On the contrary, this David Butler feature is pronounced even much superior to his former triumph; Mr. Butler himself personally assured Manager Howe that such was the case—and he ought to know.

"Girls Don't Gamble" is the film version of a very popular Saturday Evening Post story by George Weston. It is a sensational comedy-drama presented by the D. N. Schwab Productions. Interurban Movie Charts, International News, and a Universal comedy, "The Dog Doctor," complete this fine program.

The same feature picture will be shown tomorrow; also the sixth episode of "The Son of Tarzan." The fourteenth organ recital will be given by Mme. Clement, premier organist, at 6:30 tomorrow evening. Admission to this concert includes the evening motion picture performance.

PRINCE EMMANUEL TO LECTURE TUESDAY

Prince Raphael Emmanuel, a Chaldean prince or sheik, a direct descendant of those early Chaldeans from whom Abraham started out on his historic journey, will lecture before the Tuesday Afternoon Club next Tuesday on the history and customs of his native land.

Prince Emmanuel arrived in Canada about five and one-half years ago, but came to the United States shortly afterward.

BROWN'S PUNCHES

"However lightly we may look upon disloyalty to Jesus Christ, in the sight of Heaven it is a black and damnable sin.

"When you step out there to make your vow to God, to His Christ and His church, the angels listen in breathless silence and fortunate is the man or woman who, at whatever cost, seeks to be true to those vows, but God have mercy on the man or woman who not only tramples upon those vows but who makes a joke of it.

"There was a time when, perhaps, we talked too much of the sweet by and by but the time has come when the pendulum of the clock has swung the other way and we say: 'Let's talk about the dirty now and now,' and God help us if we think so much about the dirty now and now that we forget the sweet by and by.

"There are very few of us that control that something called the dollar. It usually controls us and it is the most heartless taskmaster in the world.

"God isn't so poor that you have to go to hell making money to give some of it back to God."

INTERESTING GAME PROMISED TOMORROW

The Tropico team has disbanded and their grounds taken over by a new organization, and from now on it will be known as the Glendale Athletic field. Three of the good players from the Tropico team have been taken on by the Glendale Elks to strengthen their infield and next Sunday afternoon there will be a swift game played between the Elks' and "The New Method," a semi-professional team of Los Angeles. There is a large grandstand for the accommodation of fans on the field and tomorrow promises to be a good day for the sport.

LOOKS GOOD FOR GLENDALE

Just an even dozen tiny mites of humanity that mean happiness, hope and joy to an even dozen homes, repose in their cribs at the new maternity ward of the Glendale Sanitarium. Eight girls and four boys and each one just as lusty and hearty as new citizens of the United States should be. The lucky parents are: Mr. and Mrs. Lee Payne, 1418 North Columbus, girl; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Springer, Sunland, Calif., girl; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Jessup, 5430 Phillis, boy; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Deakin, Virginia place, girl. Mr. and Mrs. L. Parrish, Los Angeles, girl; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ross, 222 1-2 Hawthorne, girl; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lickey, Los Angeles, boy; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Holmberg, 701 West Doran, girl; Mr. and Mrs. James Boggs, Culver, Ore., boy; Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Taylor, Verdugo park, boy, and Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, Breckenridge, Texas, a girl.

I am going to talk of Demas, the Deserter. I am going to talk to you about backsliding. I am going to talk of disloyalty to Jesus Christ and of being a traitor to the blood-stained banner of the cross.

"With a lot of people today it is more or less of a joke, that thing called 'backsliding.' I want to say to you, however lightly you may look upon that sin, God and the angels do not look lightly upon it. Why? The word of God teaches that when a man is born again in a wonderful sense beyond our power of mind to grasp, he is married to Jesus Christ. The church is the bride of Christ; and the word of God specifically teaches that when you turn your back on Jesus Christ and go back to the world, that has transpired which is a thousand times lower than has transpired when a wife leaves the purest, most trusting of husbands to go into the paths of purity, to live openly an immoral life. The prophet says: 'As a wife dealeth treacherously with her husband, so have ye dealt treacherously with the Lord.'

"I say again, however lightly we may look upon disloyalty to Jesus Christ, in the sight of heaven it is a black and damnable sin. God have mercy upon us when men and women can stand up before the world and make a joke of disloyalty to Jesus Christ. When a man joins a club or a lodge and takes upon himself solemn vows, and then goes out into the world to make known the secrets of that organization, to betray the confidence of his friends, he is considered deserving of the most scathing denunciation of the men identified with him in that organization. When a man takes upon himself the solema vows of the marriage relation and goes out into the world to break these vows, that man is considered deserving of the contempt of all right-minded men and women. When a man takes vows of loyalty to his flag and then turns his back upon the flag of his country to betray the cause of the nation, it is considered such a horrible sin that with hands tied behind him and blindfolded, he is shot into a dishonored grave. You can take all these vows and roll them into one and I tell you they sink into absolute insignificance when compared with the vows a man makes when he pledges eternal allegiance to Jesus Christ. Whenever a man can treat lightly the vows he made to God and the church, that man isn't as strong as he thinks himself to be.

"I wonder if an angel from heaven should stand on this platform and call the roll, and if every name in this audience should be called, how many of us tonight, right here, could spring to our feet and say: 'Present and saved by the grace of God.' How many have been loyal and true to Jesus Christ and the vows they made to the church?

"One of the greatest bits of literature is Victor Hugo's description of an oath. He says: 'When a man stands to take vows before God he is no longer a man, he is an altar on which God descends.' When you step out there to make your vows to God, to His Christ and His church, the angels listen in breathless silence and fortunate is the man or woman who, at whatever cost, seeks to be true to those vows, but God have mercy on the man or woman who not only tramples upon those vows but who makes a joke of it.

"Now, who was it that did this thing—the coworker of St. Paul? Three times Demas is spoken of, once as standing high in the offices of the church and again as the coworker with St. Paul and St. Luke as the beloved physician, and the third time as the deserter. If you will look into the past I think you will find it wasn't always the unpromising one who wrecked the ship. In Dallas I met a man who I knew had been pastor of a church and a power for good and that man was the most pitiable wreck I ever saw. I heard some time ago of a well-known evangelist who had gone on the rocks. Lucifer, a prince in heaven, from those heights swung down into the pit. Absolam was the son of the Godly David; Judas moved with Christ and the apostles. I have an idea that if names could be called tonight there are men and women here who once were great in the work of the church, for all I know preachers, evangelists, missionaries and Sunday school teachers, and perhaps nobody but God knows how far they have gone or how low they have fallen. I pray whoever we are that we will forget there is anybody else in this audience, even forget me standing here, just seek to find what manner of man and what manner of woman we are, and God will show us just where we stand tonight.

"'Demas hath forsaken me, having loved the present world.' Demas became so absorbed in the present, so blinded, so dominated by the present that the things of God faded from his view. The danger of the church in this twentieth century is that she may become too much absorbed and blinded and dominated by the things of today. If you want spiritual help and inspiration you will have to go to the one who thinks greatly on the things out there in the distance. I tell you without criticism I am scared of the program of life some of our churches have gone into. It has too much to do with the present. I have said there are two extremes. There was a time when perhaps we talked too much of the sweet by and by, but the time has come when the pendulum of the clock has swung the other way and we say: 'Let's talk about the dirty now and now,' and God help us if we think so much about the dirty now and now that we forget the sweet by and by. The things of the present loomed so largely on the horizon that Demas thought he could not see the things out there in the ages that are the real things after all.

"That particular sin of loving the present, being seduced by the present, may have a great many manifestations. It could be written of the lives of multitudes: 'Seduced from Christ through the love of gold, seduced through the all-consuming greed to get money. We are awakening in part from the awful debauch through which we have been passing. The nation has been money drunk. There are few men who can makes lots of money and keep their vision clear concerning God and spiritual things. I do not think money in itself is necessarily an enemy of God and Christ. Yet there are very few of us that control that something called the dollar. It usually controls us. It is the most heartless taskmaster in the world. I have said to evangelist friends: 'Whatever you do, don't become a money lover.' Whenever a man becomes a money lover he is no longer a lover of humanity. The valley of prosperity in temporal things is a dark valley and multitudes of traitors have gone into that valley into which no ray of light, no rainbow of promise, was ever made to shine.

"Demas loved the present. I do not know what special manifestation it was. Perhaps he got busy on some special earthly venture that he thought was legitimate. Folks sometimes kid themselves along saying: 'Well, the Lord will get most of it.' Then they wait until they get some more and they lie like Ananias in kidding themselves that they are doing it for God's sake. God isn't so poor you have to go to hell making money to give some of it back to God. I fancy some of you have bales of stocks you want God to underwrite. Multitudes in this day and age are money gripped and money driven and money damned. It isn't always the man of millions either. It is often the poor devil who lives in the shadow of the poorhouse.

"Men have been seduced in the valley of world pleasures. Do you know that during this last war the devil made hay? Thousands of our young people, consecrated and loyal, were made to feel during that awful conflict if they were not willing to desecrate the Lord's day they were disloyal to the flag. I know that hundreds of young people let go of God and high standards. We were urged to do these things because they said the soldier boys must have them. Many came to me with tears in their eyes and said: "Instead of the church standing by us and helping us to stand for God, the churches have swept us off our feet.'

"The world today is pleasure mad. Never since this earth began its swing through space has there been such a wide attempt, on such an enormous scale, backed by billions of dollars, to amuse the world, as today, and never since Jesus Christ died on the cross were people so restless and miserable and unhappy as today. We are taking opiates, artificial methods of amusement, running here and there indulging until multitudes have been driven from Christ and the church and are pleasure mad. God only knows what tragedy underlies the whole business. If you think this modern amusement craze has God in it, first, last or any time, you do not think.

"Demas had deserted, having been seduced from Christ by the pull of the flesh. I am going to talk to you frankly. I believe right here is where Demas went astray. Rome at that particular time was unspeakably vile. Women paraded the streets night after night whose only boast was their shame. Had Demas had St. Paul by his side perhaps he would have stood the test. But St. Paul was behind prison bars and Demas came and went and looked out upon all that extravagance, vice and immorality. Probably when he first saw it he was shocked and disgusted. Yet I want to tell you an angel from heaven could not long mix in that sort of environment and come into contact with that sort of indulgence without being more or less affected. I am always scared of church people who are forever wanting to go slumming. They want to pry around into places of vice and crime. Unless God sends you there on a mission, stay out of the place. I have never had any desire to go into the slums from curiosity. The angel and the brute are pretty close together in any unregenerate life. It is a sad fact that down through all the ages men and women have had to make a fight against the brute. That something called "passion," if turned into the right channel may send you out to become the world's greatest preacher or poet or musician, or if turned into the wrong channels may make you a menace to any community's life. I imagine there is where Demas fell.

"If the angel of the Lord, who knows you, were to stand here and tell the facts concerning each one of you, how many of your names would be read out as being unfaithful to Christ and how many as 'having fought the good fight'? Do you stand with St. Paul tonight or do you stand with Demas?

"The most potent fact in the damnation of a child may be a backslidden father or a backslidden mother. God only knows the tragedies that may be in this audience tonight because the fathers and mothers are not right with God. When a man is wrong with God he is wrong everywhere else.

"There are multitudes who have been branded as backsliders who have never been frontsliders, people who have never really known God. The man who has been truly saved to God and who has deserted Christ is ruined for this world. 'Demas hath deserted me.' Where do you stand?"

Evangelist John E. Brown Telling a Funny Story

Jesus' Most Sweeping Promise

At the service in the Tabernacle this morning at 10:30 o'clock, Evangelist Brown took for his text, John 15-7. "If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you." "This," he declared, "is Jesus' most sweeping promise. No sincere, honest prayer of the Christian is unanswered. The answer may not be just what was asked for but the answer comes. In the home Father says no and Mother reasons with the petitioner and shows that something else is best. So God deals with his children. How little real asking there is! It is appalling. Jesus said: 'Ask largely and ye shall receive abundantly.' We limit God's power when we ask meagerly. Prayer to the soul of the Christian is just as necessary as food to the body. When prayer ceases the Christian is dead.

"Prayer is a necessity in the home if the children are to be brought to the faith and kept therein. It is a necessity in time of temptation. Christ nowhere says there is a limit to the answering of prayer.

The speaker gave several instances in his own life of positive and seemingly miraculous answers to prayer, and one about Dwight L. Moody. Said he: "The God of Elijah is just as powerful today as he was then and will answer every sincere, honest, unselfish prayer of the Christian."

Rev. Otis Ironmonger

When Rev. Otis Ironmonger was asked to tell how he came to use his wonderful voice for evangelistic work instead of in concert or on the stage, he told a little of his history and where the impulses which placed him where he is. He was an Illinois boy, born in Jacksonville, and having a great love for music, when he discovered that he was justified in cultivating his voice, he went to Chicago to study in the Moody Institute.

"After I had been there a while," said he, "I got my eyes open to certain things and gave my life to Christian service. Then I prepared myself for this kind of work as a gospel singer. I spent the first season with the Redpath Chautauqua as a member of the Bennett male quartette. Then I spent a year in evangelistic work in the east in association with Dr. William Bieder Wolf. By that time I felt I ought to study for the ministry so I came to the coast and entered the San Francisco Theological Seminary. All this time I had no independent means and had to work for the money to pay for my instruction. In Chicago by work in the elevated railroad, as chorus leader, and instructor in elementary art, I paid my way. I thought I was very fortunate to earn through these triple activities $13 a week, but $13 went further than it does now. When I entered the seminary in San Francisco I had just married and of course had to earn money for the support of my wife and the two children born to us, which I did by means of an appointment as acting pastor at Sausalito. As I was carrying 20 units of study, it meant going to bed about 12 and getitng up early in the morning. It was a strenuous life all right but it did me a great deal of good. I had been a happy, careless boy. Having my nose on the grindstone made me see things in their real proportions and made me value the more things I was striving to attain."

After graduation Mr. Ironmonger was for two years pastor of the Presbyterian church at San Fernando and from there went to Oakland as assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church of that city. After spending a year there he accepted John Brown's invitation to go out with him as singer, chorus leader and assistant evangelist.

He has what might be described as a bass-baritone voice with a range from F. sharp down to low C. The simple, gospel hymns suitable for such services afford little scope for the display of such a voice, but the work he considers bigger than any personal glory to him. His thought in singing is always not how to reveal his vocal powers but how best to get the message across. His enunciation is perfect and he always succeeds in moving his audiences.

COLUMBUS AVENUE P.-T. A. SESSION

Thursday afternoon the Columbus avenue P.-T. A. had a highly successful meeting at the school. The first part was devoted to an informal discussion of questions taken out of the question box, to which all mothers had contributed which was most interesting and helpful. Mrs. C. L. Peckham, chairman of programs, presented Miss Dorothy Peart, who sang the accompaniment being supplied by Miss Constance Gonzales.

Superintendent White spoke of the forthcoming bond election, and at the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Wolbach who is courtesy chairman, served tea and cake.

POSSIBLE TREAT FOR SUNDAY MEETINGS

Jimmie Garth, the great composer and pianist is expected to be here Sunday. He is an old friend of Evangelist Brown, in fact they are regular cronies. It is said of Mr. Clark, the regular accompanist, that he makes a piano sing. Garth makes it talk. He wrote the music for song No. 11 in the Tabernacle Song Book, "He Lives," and that will be sung tomorrow is he is here.

PRACTICAL JOKER

Otis Ironmonger, the song leader of the John Brown evangelistic company, doesn't look like a practical joker but he is just that and then some. At a state Christian Endeavor convention in the north last year he was one of those present and was continually playing tricks on the others. He would enter the dining room a little ahead of the others and pass along the table picking up Paul Brown's glass of iced tea and gulping it down. Then he would do the same with Howard Brown's glass of milk, and so on till he had disposed of a dozen or less glassfuls, and all without a smile or a nod. How he held it all with his "skinny frame," as John Brown calls it, was beyond their comprehension. Finally, the rest of the party became so outdone with his tricks that they resolved to play even, so they got a big chunk of ice and put it into a bathtub of already cold water. When it had about all dissolved they laid hold hands on Ironmonger and bore him, struggling, to the bathroom, plunged him in and held him down until he was thoroughly soaked. When they let him out he smilingly thanked them, saying such a bath was quite refreshing on a hot night.

During the same convention when he was to sing several selected solos, Howard Brown, the state president, and a few others, stole all of his music, then, a few minutes before the program was to open they sent a boy to him with a note reading: "Pay the boy 50 cents and he will bring you your music." But Ironmonger said to the boy, in the hearing of the conspirators, "I don't need any music." To the dismay of the plotters he made no move toward recovering the music and when it was only two minutes until opening time and Ironmonger was still serene and unruffled, they gave in and had the music brought to him.

Otis Ironmonger is not only a sweet singer but a jolly, sunshiny Christian, always ready to see the funny side, always a thorough optimist.

FINE MEETING OF CHAPTER B. A.

Chapter B. A., P. E. O., held its regular all-day meeting, Friday, at the home of Mrs. Effie Preston on North Jackson street; hostesses assisting Mrs. Preston being Mrs. Ida Noble and Mrs. Bertha Dodds. It was a red letter day as these hostesses had invited Chapter C. J., the baby chapter of Glendale, to be with them, also Mrs. Lola Bennett, the new state president. A Mrs. Tanner from Oklahoma was another much enjoyed guest.

The regular business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Madeline Kelley. A splendid report of the recent convention at Burbank was given by the president and the other delegate, Mrs. Kate Parker.

Mrs. Bennett was called upon for some remarks and responded in a most charming maner, closing with a little verse she had written purposely for Chapter B. A. Delightful little speeches were made by the members of Chapter C. J.

Mrs. Beryl Cross, the past president of B. A. was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of Spanish iris and yellow Marguerites, persented to her by Mrs. Madeleine Kelley as a token of the appreciation of her splendid work as leader of the model meeting given at convention

Mrs. Benett also was presented with a most exquisite bunch of red roses and white sweet peas. This was also the gift of Mrs. Kelly and was presented with a beautiful little thought of love and good wishes for Mrs. Bennett's future as state president.

Following this a delightful luncheon was served on the porch under a beautiful live oak tree. In the afternoon a splendid review of Galsworthy's book "The Saints Progress" was given by Mrs. Kate Williams.

HERE IN GLENDALE

Judge Lowe had 55 cases of traffic law violations on his docket yesterday. Fifty of these were disposed of, the parties either appearing and paying their fines, having the matter attended to by the Auto Club or forfeiting their bail. Five who had agreed to appear and failed to keep their promises will be arrested and brought before Judge Lowe. Nearly $250 in fines were collected. The highest fine was $15 for speeding over 41 miles an hour on Colorado, by a motorcyclist. It was second offense within 30 days. His license was suspended for 30 days and he was warned that a third appearance would call for a much severer penalty.

A Ford belonging to Roger Bauer of 1006 Sycamore avenue, Eagle Rock, was stolen from opposite the Palace Grand last night and two more bicycles were stolen yesterday. The Ford contained two ladies' coats, a blanket and a man's overcoat.

Peter L. Ferry has several teams and wagons at work excavating for the big new Monarch building to be erected on the south half of his 105x115 lot at Harvard and Brand. A filling station will be established on the corner. The entire space will be excavated to the sidewalk level.

RECENT PURCHASE

S. N. Brown recently purchased from C. F. Parker of South Glendale avenue the lot on the corner of Lomita and Glendale avenues. The lot extends back to Elk avenue.

CARPENTIER MAY KNOCKOUT DEMPSEY

By JACK VEIOCK
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 23.—"I look to see Carpentier give Dempsey an awful battle."

So says George H. ("Kid") Lavigne, who was known as the "giant killer" 20 years ago and now lives in Detroit, where he is employed at the Ford auto plant.

The opinion of this once great battler is very interesting. He knows what he is talking about.

But let him tell it:

"I've settled down. My fighting days are over, but I'll never cease to love the game.

"Dempsey is a wonderful fighter—but no one knows how much he can take. He may whip Carpentier, but I look to see the Frenchman give him an awful battle. I met Carpentier in France. He's the goods. I wouldn't be a bit surprised, either, if he 'K. O'ed' Dempsey. He's lighter than Dempsey and only a few years ago was battling feathers, but mark my word, he'll surprise everyone by the great showing he'll make. And I know that Carpentier feels sure he can whip Dempsey.

"If Willard and Dempsey ever fight again I look to see Willard beat him. I saw the fight at Toledo. Willard didn't train. He held Dempsey too cheap. But if they meet again I'll string with Willard. He'll beat him sure.

Jeffries Was Doped

"I want to tell you that Jeffries was doped when he fought Johnson. Johnson might have beat him, but those sure thing California boys took no chances. They doped Jeff.

"They doped me, too, when I fought Britt out there on May 29, 1902. They get a handler to rub belladonna in your hair. Then when you get in the ring your vision is affected. I saw two Britts. They hung it on me out there in California, where the native sons play the game safe.

"Joe Walcott? There was sure a man-killer and a great fighter. He broke two of my ribs. Not the little floating ribs that don't count, but two of the big main hoops. He sunk his hand in me a foot, and during the rest of the fight I thought his hand was still inside me. But I stayed with him. He was sure some fighter. I had broken my left arm three months before my Britt fight. I knew it wasn't strong enough in such a short time to do the work, but rather than disappoint the matchmakers I went through with it. And then they had to dope me in the bargain. No western fights for me if I was still able to take 'em on.

"I claim that George Reynolds and I put the boxing game on its feet in Paris. We went on for a benefit. There were many women present. We didn't do any fancy boxing, but sailed in. The women at first cried 'mechant!' (brutal), but they soon liked it and the cries turned to 'bravos.' From then on the French public couldn't get enough of professional boxing.

"I'm only a spectator of the game now. But it's the greatest game in the whole realm of athletics.

"I still do a little boxing," he concludes, "just for exercise and to keep my hand in, and now and then a friendly bout to help out at some benefit. Father Time has called the count on me, so far as the professional game goes. But in my day I didn't bar any of 'em, color or weight."

DRUNK IN HIS OWN HOME, MAN IS FINED

(By International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Kan., April 23.—A man has no legal right to get drunk in his own private home, according to a decision handed down here by Police Judge A. J. Herrod.

Joseph Bochos was arrested when police raided his boarding house. Joseph Folich and his wife were charged with running a still while Bochos, who police said was intoxicated, was charged with drunkeness.

"A man has a right to get drunk in his own home," Bochos' attorney said, in defending his client.

"He has not," decided the court.

"Under the law, a drunken man may be arrested anywhere he happens to be at the time. He is not immune from arrest in his home."

Bochos was fined $5. He paid.

SCHOOLBOY SOVIETS

(By International News Service)

LONDON, April 23.—Among the astonishing medley of new theories being attempted at English schools is a sort of setting up of a Soviet in the class. In the coeducational school the boys and girls are instructed to decide for themselves just how they shall be marked by their master and how and what they shall study. More than this, they are at liberty to criticize their master. The argument is that all children are likely to obey rules of their own making. It is said the girls take more kindly than boys to the new idea.

NOTED BEAUTIES NOW SERVANTS

By NEWTON C. PARKE
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 23.—Women of the Russian nobility, wives of high officers in the late Czar's armies and noted beauties of the Petrograd court, are now working as milliners' assistants at a few dollars a week, shop clerks, and even as chambermaids in Paris, to keep from starvation.

A group of French and Russian women which is trying to raise funds for their assistance made this fact known today. Several of these women agreed to permit their names and their present occupation to be made public in order to help the campaign for the relief of others who are absolutely penniless and living on charity.

Madame Danilov, wife of General Danilov, chief of staff of one of the Czar's armies and who disappeared after the Bolshevik revolution, has just obtained a permanent place as domestic in a wealthy French family after weeks of weary search. She receives $15 a week, in addition to her board and a small bedroom on the top floor of the mansion where she is employed.

Madame Danilov was wealthy in her own name before she married the General. She possessed several automobiles and derived a big income from gold mines in Siberia. When the revolution came she fled Russia and made her way to Paris. Her funds soon gave out and she obtained employment in a millinery shop that sold cheap hats to shopgirls. A few weeks ago when business was slack she was discharged. She was too proud to ask for charity and for several weeks lived on the few francs she earned sewing and taking care of children.

Royal Still, Though Menials

In another millinery shop, a little more pretentious, are employed two women who moved in the highest circles in Petrograd until the revolution. Mme. Anistarch Ignattovitch, who was a member of the aristocratic Kovaleski family before her marriage, is one of them. She is the author of a number of poems and her salons were crowded with literary people in the days of the Czar. Her hands are red and rough, but she proclaims to all visitors that she is still a royalist. Her companion is Mme. Volkov, wife of a member of the Russian Duma.

Mme. Avdoovskaia, one of the wealthiest women real estate owners if Petrograd just before the revolution, has advertised under another name for a position as a domestic servant. She admits that her last penny is gone.

Male members of the Russian nobility who sought refuge in Paris, no longer attempt to hide their poverty. General Alexievzov, chief of staff of a former governor of Moscow and councillor of state, is employed as a sort of super-office-boy in a Paris factory. He washes the windows, cleans the floors and ushers visitors into the reception room. M. Michailov, who once possessed vast estates in Southern Russia, has just obtained a job as doorman for a big Paris bank, through the influence of his wife, who is French.

GEORGE LONGPRE HAS MANY "FRIENDS"

LARIMIE, Wyo., April 23.—George Longpre, local resident, is being overwhelmed by the ardent manifestations of a wide circle of "friends."

Reason: He has just received thousands of dollars' worth of liquors and beer, handed over to him by order of the state courts.

Sheriff Trabing hauled the truckload of "items" to the home of Longpre under an order of Judge M. C. Brown, who held that this "personal property" was unlawfully seized by Wyoming peace officers.

Amid the huzzahs of hundreds of onlookers Sheriff Trabing transferred the following "items" to Longpre's cellar:

Fifty-three cases of bonded whisky.
One ten-gallon jug of gin.
Four three-gallon kegs of "liquor."
One-gallon keg of "liquor."
Four half-gallon kegs of "liquor."
Twenty bottles of beer.
Forty bottles of "mixed liquors."

The consignment, estimated at local "bootleg" prices to be worth nearly $20,000, was seized at Longpre's home in August, 1919, by a squad of state prohibition officers. Longpre immediately brought action for the return of his "property," and the decision was rendered in his favor.

COLLEGE GIRLS PART WITH THEIR TRESSES

WELLESLEY, Mass., April 23.—Woman's crown of glory is her hair; everywhere but at Wellesley College. There the bobbed hair fashion is growing in favor, the undergrads giving as their reason the convenience and the absence of hair nets.

Even members of the Wellesley College news board have joined the procession and appear with bobbed locks.

The girls sometimes act as barbers for their mates, making a goob job with the aid of a bowl.

Paris says the style is vanishing, but the Wellesley girls grin and say: "A fig for Paris fashions. We delight in the absence of hairpins and nets."

"DRYS" SWING INTO ACTION

By W. H. ATKINS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The "drys" today swung into action for a finish fight to prevent beer and wine sales on doctors' prescriptions. Congress is their objective.

Their battle plans are drawn and are to be pushed with all the legislative cunning for which past prohibition victories have been noted. Under the leadership of William Jennings Bryan the "drys" were brought together in a concerted move to compel an immediate reversal of recent opinion of the department of justice which threw into the discard some of the more stringent rules of the prohibition bureau.

The "drys" today charged that the objectionable opinion, drafted for the treasury by former Attorney General Palmer before he left office is the "opening wedge of the wets" to restore the liquor traffic.

WHOLESALE STATION FOR STANDARD OIL

From the appearance of things on San Fernando road just north of Colorado, Glendale's industrial district is well established. A spur track from the Southern Pacific cuts diagonally across the highway and invades the extensive grounds of the Kent Lumber company and Standard Oil company. Cars standing on the siding give a business aspect to the scene. This spur was put in by the Standard Oil company but as it passes through the lumber yard first, the Kent people will branch off from this with their own spur. The Standard Oil company has its retail supply station completed and it will open for business in a day or two. There is a large wholesale plant in connection, the whole thing occupying three acres or more. In the northwest corner is the pump house containing the pumps which force the oil and gasoline siphoned from tank cars into the large tanks which have been built for the purpose. The largest, which is for gasoline, holds about 162,000 gallons. There are three smaller tanks of nearly 20,000 gallons capacity each, two for gasoline and the other for pearl oil.

The greater portion of the ground space not occupied by tanks and buildings is covered with concrete and there are yet a large storage house for case and barrel goods as well as a garage of considerable proportions to erect, as well as a canopied station for the loading of tank wagons. A wire fence of unique construction will surround the grounds, with inlets for the spur track and tank wagons.

A strip of ground ten feet wide along San Fernando road will be dedicated to the city for walk and parkways.

F. G. Heath, construction engineer, has been in charge of the work.

FUGITIVE RUSTLER KEEPS HIS WORD

(By International News Service)

MITCHELL, S. D., April 23.—"Buffalo" George keeps his word.

Hunted from county to county as a fugitive, the "Buffalo," a paroled "rustler," keeps his faith with the governor of South Dakota by reporting his whereabouts once a month by mail. The "Buffalo" is sought by police on a charge of rustling a drove of cattle while out on parole.

Despite every effort of police and sheriffs, the "Buffalo" manages to elude posses, but his letter reaches the governor every month on time. His last letter told the governor he was not guilty of any rustling since he was paroled a year ago. He warns police officers to come with "their hands on their guns," for he won't return to jail alive.

The "Buffalo," a former "bad man," was paroled after serving one year of a give-year term on condition he report monthly to the governor.

ON APPLYING THE BRAKE

The driver of an automobile who is all the time using his brakes is not a very good driver. Brakes were made for emergencies, and to be used for definite stops. A great many drivers use them to play with. They rush ahead without care and then are compelled to put on their brakes to double duty.

Also, brakes are often used too soon.

But there would be no safety to any sort of engine without dependable brakes. Even the human machine has them. Just for convenience sake,we will call your brakes your Will and your Judgment.

Your Will and your Judgment work in co-operation with your Decision.

You must have a definite plan to back up everything you do, if you want to win. But you must have the necessary courage to go through with it. Be careful of your brakes! Don't put them on so often that you get nowhere. Go ahead with care, but with knowledge and determination. But when you know you want to stop—stop!

Many a boy is ruined for life because some well intentioned father or mother applied his brakes for him too soon or at the wrong time.

If you have a boy or girl, teach them to apply their own brakes. They may make a few mistakes and get in a few accidents—but as a rule their experience pays for the mistakes a hundred times over.

One thing that brings out the temptation to use brakes too often, is fast going.

Many a serious accident has been caused because the brakes didn't work! The machine was going too fast.

Each of us must learn the pace at which we travel best. Then we should use our brakes accordingly. It is important to know when—and how. Then things work out automatically and there is ease to achievement.

Another important thing to remember is that all brake are different. Every man travels at his own speed. So let him handle his brakes. Don't try to regulate his speed for him.

Help, suggest, co-operate—but never interfere!

ROOSEVELT — A STATE

The directors of the chamber of commerce of Mitchell, S. D., want the name of the state changed from South Dakota to Roosevelt. They have begun work to get what hey want and they have a good idea. Dakota is a better name than North Dakota, and North Dakota could have it if South Dakota became Roosevelt.

Roosevelt's early life was associated with the Dakotas, and the state would make the association a permanent record if it were to change its name. There is a lack of full identity in these geographical distinctions in state names.

North Carolina and South Carolina might even get together on a proposal to give Carolina to one and take a new name for the other. North Carolina probably would want to be known as Josephus or Daniels, and South Carolina as Woodrow or Wilson.

We do not know just what to do with West Virginia. It probably will be able to take care of itself when the time comes.

THEY ARE NOT FORGETTING

The French plan to erect memorials throughout France with the warning "Lest We Forget." Germany already has erected monuments in France which to the French eyes bear the legend "Lest We Forget." They are the devastated regions of France.

The French have erected invisible monuments in Germany on which the Germans can read "Lest We Forget." They are in Lorraine, in the Saar, along the Rhine valley, in the Ruhr basin, in Silesia.

Throughout all the irredentas, the devastated regions, the occupied territories, the starving and suffering territories, these memorials are visible to the rebellious, the depressed, and the envenomed eyes of millions of Europeans.

They will not forget. That is just what the world fears.

GLENDALE HIGH WINS SILVER CUP

The debating department of Glendale Union high celebrated Jinks Day with special fervor for its representatives covered themselves with special glory Thursday night. At Covina and here in Glendale debates were held synonymously on the question: "Resolved, that the United States should introduce a system of responsible cabinet government."

Victor Colburn and Francis Read were the debaters here at home who handled the affirmative and who were opposed by two representatives of Covina high. Kathleen Campbell and Tom McNary who had the negative side went to Covina. In both instances the Glendale debaters won by the unanimous vote of the three judges. This victory gives the school as a permanent possession the silver cup of the Central League for which it has been competing for several seasons. Those who served as judges here were: Debating Coach Perry of Los Angeles high, Miss Walker, debating coach of Alhambra high, and Attorney Roth of Los Angeles.

Two Irishmen were talking of an old friends.

"Oh, yes! Tim Dooley was a generous man."

"Did he ever buy you anything?"

"Well, nearly. One night he came in and said: 'Well, gentlemen, what are we going to have—rain or snow?'"

ARREST ALLEGED EXPERT SWINDLERS

(By International News Service)

SEATTLE, April 23.—Stock salesmen making as much as $2800 a month have been operating throughout the west for the Wall street securities company of San Francisco, on an alleged swindling scheme, according to Prosecuting Attorney Malcolm Douglas, who has under arrest here today Paul D. Porter, a salesman, and W. U. Moran, Seattle manager of the concern.

The scheme by which thousands of dollars have been taken from the people of the west, said Douglas, was to sell legitimate stocks from 40 to 100 per cent above par while misrepresenting their real value.

Miss Roberta Blakerway of this city had told the prosecutor that she paid $1200 for Packard Motor Car company stock at $80 a share while the salesman represented the stock's par value at $100.

According to Douglas, 28 salesmen have been operating for the company west of Denver. It is estimated from $75,000 to $100,000 worth of stock has been sold by the concern which has its head offce in the Chronicle building, San Francisco, and has maintained a branch office here.

During the 1920 construction period season Pennsylvania built approximately 410 miles of concrete roadway, a world's record for one season.

DISTRIBUTION OF VICTORY MEDALS

The United States army is inaugurating an intensive campaign for the distribution of the victory medal which every ex-service man is entitled to receive whether he served overseas or in the camps on this side of the water, on land or on sea. Major Cotton of Los Angeles and Major Vestal of Glendale have been named as medal officers of this district. Knowing that there are many ex-service men in Glendale who have probably not received the medal, they have agreed to be present every Thursday evening at the regular drill of the Glendale company, California National Guard with blanks which they will fill out for all such men, only requiring that the men present their certificates of honorable discharge.

This arrangement will do away with all unnecessary red tape, no acknowledgments before a notary will be required, and the applications will be forwarded without delay that the men may receive the medals as soon as possible.

The blanks call for the full name of the soldier, his military rank November 11, 1918, and where he was stationed at that time. The most urgent requirement is that the discharge be offered in evidence at the time of the application for the medal. All ex-service men whether members of the National Guard or not are therefore requested to present themselves any drill night, Thursday evening, on the athletic field of Glendale high and make due application.

BANDITS GET $200,000 WORTH OF GEMS

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 23.—In one of the most daring robberies reported here in months two bandits, shortly before noon yesterday, entered the downtown offices of J. J. Reingold, diamond broker, bound Reingold and a clerk securely and escaped calmly into the crowded street with a $200,000 consignment of cut gems belonging to the firm of Phillis Present & Son, Rochester, N. Y., and $35,000 worth of jewelry belonging to Reingold.

The two men made their way to the street in the building elevator without exciting comment with the jewelry carried in a gunny sack.

HONORS GRAND HIGH PRIEST

Following his election to the highest office within the gift of the grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the state of California, the office of high grand priest, Attorney Mattison B. Jones of Glendale was given a tremendous ovation that lasted for several minutes at Thursday afternoon's session of the convention of the grand commandery of the state of California in Long Beach.

In the course of its afternoon session the grand chapter unanimously voted to suggest Mr. Jones to the general grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons of North America at its triennial convention at Asheville, N. C., September 28, 29 and 30, for one of the general grand offices.

Should Mr. Jones be so signally honored as to be elected or appointed an officer of the general grand chapter, the national organization of Royal Arch Masons, he would be the first Californian to receive such recognition, it was asserted.

That this coast should be recognized on the officiary of the general grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons is understood to be the opinion of F. W. Craig, of Des Moines, Iowa, general grand high priest of the general grand chapter. Mr. Craig is now a visitor in Long Beach. He attended the sessions of the grand chapter at the Masonic Temple and was present when Attorney Jones was given his great ovation.

Attorney Jones took occasion to congratulate the Long Beach Masons for the delightful entertainment they had provided. "I want to say that the hospitality of Long Beach Masonry and the city itself have been greatly appreciated, and I wish at this time to offer my congratulations."

At the Hotel Virginia Wednesday, Grand High Priest Jones entertained at dinner Mrs. Jones and daughter, Winifred; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Craig, Leonard Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Stephenson. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Stephenson are law partners of Mr. Jones.

"NOT WILLING THAT ANY SHOULD PERISH"

At the convention on the Woman's Christian Temperance Union at Pasadena, the sessio nopened with Mrs. L. C. Yeoman in the chair.

The theme of the morning's program was "Not Willing That Any Should Perish." After devotionals by Mrs. Clara Freeland, reports of the year's work were given by various superintendents as follows: medical temperance, Dr. Ella Howard; health, Dr. Comstock; anti-narcotics, Mrs. Runnells; Americanization, Mrs. Bowen.

Four contestants participated in a parliamentary law contest under the direction of Mrs. Gleason, national superintendent of this section and compiler of the Gleason Parliamentary Digest. A beautiful gavel was the trophy awarded to Dr. L. M. Hutchinson, the victor in the contest.

State officers were introduced and each gave a word of greeting.

The afternoon session was devoted to a symposium whose theme was, "That they may be one, even as we are one."

Later, a banquet to 200 guests was given at the Coffee Cup Inn. Mrs. Yeoman acted as toastmistress. The masterful address of Dr. Hugh K. Walker closed the evening.

GERMANS CURTLY ADVISED TO PAY

(By International News Service)

LONDON, April 23.—This afternoon's leading London newspapers, while refraining from editorial comment on President Harding's refusal to fix reparations total for Germany, indicated through their headlines that they interpret the American's reply as a snub to Germany. The general "headline view" seems to be that the reply is a "curt advice to the Germans to pay."

The Daily Express compares the German appeal to President Harding to the ex-kaiser's famous handwritten plea to President Wilson in 1918. The paper describes the Berlin note as an ingenious move, but adds: "It is certain that the allies will not be content with a mere postponement."

Other morning papers refrain from editorial comment on the German note.

PERMIT ASKED FOR BILLIARD HALL

One of the matters which came before city trustees at their meeting in the city hall, Thursday evening, was the application of George J. Tauxe, for a permit to open a pocket billiard room in Glendale. Referred to committee of the whole.

A petition from residents of the Sycamore canyon district presented to the board by Porter S. McNutt, asking for annexation to Glendale, was referred to city manager for checking and report.

The appointment of C. E. Epps as patrolman was confirmed.

Further hearing of protests against confirmation of assessments for improvement of Maple avenue were postponed until April 8.

City manager's recommendation that application of Mrs. Ada Atkinson for permit to care for few patients in her home was adopted.

The City Manager's recommendations relative to the improvement of portions of Lexington Drive and Doran street west of Glendale avenue were adopted and the city engineer was instructed to prepare the necessary proceedings.

The City Manager's report relative to unsatisfactory water conditions in the neighborhood of Stocker and Campbell streets with recommendations for relief of condition, was ordered filed.

The opinion of City Attorney Shaw relative to the effect of the resolution adopted by the board February 24 concerning water service to users outside the city was received and his recommendation that negotiations be had with the city of Los Angeles and Eagle Rock relative to the matter, was adopted.

City Attorney Shaw was instructed to represent the city in the damage suit brought against it growing out of collision with automobile of the public service department.

A canvass of the vote at the election of March 29 on Propositions 1 and 2 was made and a resolution adopted declaring that Proposition No. 2 received the largest number of votes and will therefore become the policy of the city.

The history of the button dates back to Queen Elizabeth's reign.

"BATTERING BABE" ON WAY FOR RECORD

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 23.—The battering Babe is on his way.

Ruth, king of home run knockers, has registered his third circuit soak of the season and appears to be well started toward a new home run record.

The Bambino is nearly two weeks ahead of his 1920 "schedule." Last year he did not hit a home run until May Day, when he got his first fourply knock off Herb Penock at the Polo Grounds. His second homer was made the next day off Jones and then he lost his batting eye for more than a week.

On May 11 of last year Ruth hit two homers, his third and fourth. Yesterday, at Philadelphia, he batted out his third homer for this season and during the afternoon he got four hits in four trips to the plate, two being doubles.

The manner in which Ruth is hitting indicates that he is on edge and ready to get away to a new record. The excess weight he is carrying around—though he denies this himself—is not doing him any harm.

When warm weather sets in for good Ruth will lose his surplus poundage and will be a better fielder, base runner and hitter as a result. For his weight and inches Ruth is a mighty fast young man on his feet, but in the opinion of a majority of the critics Miller Huggins is making a mistake in playing him in left field.

The sun garden is the toughest assignment in the outfield and at the Polo Grounds, at least, Ruth has not shown like a finished left fielder. Perhaps he will improve with a little more experience.

Some FACTS About

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921, and how many have been sold to retail customers in the United States:

	Produced	Delivered to Retail Customers
JANUARY	29,883	57,208
FEBRUARY	35,305	63,603
MARCH	61,886	87,221
Total Production	127,074	Total Retail Sales 208,032

showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceeded production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,719 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts clearly show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were it not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks, therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having your Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

SOVIETISM IS ANCHORED IN RUSSIAN SOUL

Penniless, But Rich in Natural Resources, United States Can Save Russia

By NEWTON C. PARKE
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 23.—The United States, by taking the lead among the great world powers, can save Russia from utter ruin. But she cannot do it by attacking the soviet system or by supporting counter-revolutionary armies attempting to upset Lenin and Trotsky by force.

This declaration was made in an interview today by General Ignatieff, Russian military attache to France during the war, and the one outstanding figure in the group of Russians who remained in Paris after the Lenin revolution. Ignatieff, though a former czarist officer, has steadfastly opposed all schemes to overthrow the present Moscow government by military force. He has refused to hand over to the Kolchak, Denikin and Wrangel armies any part of the funds entrusted to his care for buying war materials in France, or to take any part in the deliberations of exiled Russian nobles, though he himself is a member of the Russian nobility.

"Sovietism is anchored in the soul of Russia," said General Ignatieff. "When Americans and Frenchmen and Englishmen come to understand that they will understand what folly it is to try to beat Lenin and Trotsky from outside.

"Foreigners confuse soviets with bolshevism; communism and even free love, and make them all the target of one shaft of reprobation. They think that the best way of bringing down the Moscow government is to support these camouflages of 'counter-revolutions,' which only exasperate the Russian people, jealous of the liberty they won at such a cost.

"Soviet, in Russian, means council. The first revolutionary soviets were local representatives of different professions. Sovietism is nothing but the same professional representation adopted by republican governments everywhere. Communism originated in Russia as the result of the profound misery of the people and because of foreign persecution.

"If foreign governments want to save Russia let them stop persecuting her. Let them give to Russia the means of production and the phantom of communism will disappear of itself. America, perhaps aided by France alone, could provide these means and assure the economic revival of Russia.

"The question of individuals counts for nothing. Lenin and Zinovieff know very well that they are not going to revolutionize old Europe or the young United States. They do not ignore the fact that for the Russian people the one vital question is the agricultural question. They know perfectly well that communism will not solve that. Sooner or later they must seek a compromise. The Russian peasant wants the land which he cultivates, with the right to dispose of it as he pleases, to sell it or to leave it to his heirs. It is impossible to react against this profound instinct of the race.

"In my mind the return of the Russian lands, now nationalized, to the peasants would solve the agrarian problem in its entirety, not only politically but economically. The United States and France could assist in this process of revival, and perhaps France could obtain pledges in land for the payment of the debt owed her by the old Russian government and in that way the peace of Europe would be nearly restored.

"Russia has failed financially. That is quite clear. But she remains an excellent business proposition. The renewal of economic relations between London, Berlin and Moscow, though it indicates a desire on the part of England and Germany not to lose the Russian market, really means nothing. Russia has no way of paying for products from these countries. The only solution is to find a way of opening conversations with the soviets, and it should be the business of the United States and of other countries to step forward with concrete propositions."

MOUNTAIN HIKE OF SCIENCE CLASSES

Under the auspices of the science department of Glendale high and the leadership of Prof. Alfred Cookman, there will be a trip to Mt. Wilson in which about 100 teachers, students and parents of students will participate, April 30. They will, of course, be conveyed by autos to the foot of Mt. Wilson and from there hike to Camp Roberts and the falls of the Big Santa Anita. They will go early and return the same day.

RHOADES PRAISES C. OF C. COMMITTEE

Glendale has made a new record to add to the many creditable ones she already possesses.

At the forum dinner of the chamber of commerce held Thursday in the high school cafeteria, Secretary Rhoades announced that the "10 o'clock committee" appointed at the last noon luncheon of the chamber to give two hours once in two weeks to the enrolling of new members had already secured its quota of five members each. Mr. Rhoades says that for celerity and dispatch this beats anything in his 12 years' experience as a chamber of commerce secretary.

The understanding was that another "10 o'clock committee" should be appointed as soon as each member of the present committee had secured five members. Mr. Rhoades said that, not having anticipated such quick work, he was not prepared to name the new committee, but would do so at the next noon luncheon. The committee that has made this remarkable record and set the pace for future committee includes E. F. Kulp, secretary, Mrs. M. L. Tight, Mrs. Ella Richardson, Mrs. M. I. Biggs and W. R. Phelon. Secretary Rhoades thanked them in behalf of the chamber of commerce, and his expression of appreciation was ratified by the hearty applause of the 75 or 80 members of the chamber seated about the tables.

The musical program was the rare treat that everyone knew it would be, when it was announced that it had been arranged by Mrs. Catherine H. Shank. "Rain" and "Little Pickaninny Kid" were the two beautiful solos selected by Mrs. Shank for the opening number, both of them admirably suited to her lovely soprano voice; a trio, "The Pool," sung by Mmes. Shank, Laurie H. Yost and Alice Crawford, was enthusiastically received; "The Wind Song" (Rogers), and "Will o the Wisp" (Spross), were the solos with which Mrs. Yost delighted the audience; "Robin, Robin, Sing Me a Song" (Spross), and "A Memory" (Fairchild), were the tender, dainty solos of Mrs. Crawford. The sympathetic accompaniments of Miss Elena Warriner added much to the perfection of this artistic program.

Carl A. Bundy, manager of the "Carl A. Bundy Quill and Press," Los Angeles and vice president of the California State Christian Endeavor Union was the speaker of the evening. His subject, "Trade-Marks," was handled in a clever and original manner. He defined a trade-mark as anything that distinguishes an object from other similar objects. In this sense, he says, the word trade-mark may be adapted to apply to people, cities and organizations. As an illustration he cited the initials "T. R." which are commonly recognized now as the "trademark" of that vital personality known to the whole world as Theodore Roosevelt; this trade-mark had its origin in a cartoon in which the initials peered from Teddy's eyeglasses.

Mr. Bundy showed posters illustrating his talk, and drew analogies between the trade-marks of firms and products and the peculiarities and dominant traits of cities and people, which he calls their trade-marks.

The speaker suggested that the attractive "Glen and Dale" posters which he had designed for the Christian Endeavor convention to be held in Glendale in June, be adopted by the city and displayed on the highways to attract attention to "Glendale where opportunities prevail." This poster, reminiscent of the old Verdugo days, suggests hospitality and welcome.

THE FINAL TEST
Of the Cleanliness of Milk is the Bacteria Count.
Diseased or healthy cows, clean or dirty milking, careless or proper handling of the product—all these show up in the number of bacteria in the milk.
Grade A Raw Milk is allowed by law a count of 100,000 bacteria per ccm. "Certified" Milk, selling for 28 cents a quart, is allowed 10,000. The count for our Grade A Raw Milk is always under 5000, and often below 2000. There is no escaping the fact that this means clean milk—clean from the cow to you. We maintain this remarkably low count not by using powerful disinfectants, as some dairies do, but by keeping things clean.

Subject "Crooked Paths." This church stands solidly back of all the meetings of the entire campaign.

Those who make regular weekly gifts to the church, can bring them to the tabernacle and they will be turned over to the treasurer. Gifts to the new building fund may be presented in the same manner.

Meetings every morning and evening (except Monday), during the coming two weeks.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL
Corner Wilson and Kenwood.
Rev. Clyde Monroe Crist, D. D., Pastor.

Sunday School (graded), 9:30. Prof. A. W. Tower, Supt. The school is having its largest attendance and every department is well organized. Mr. Carl Seitter is religious educational director. There will be no preaching services in the church Sunday. The Epworth League and the Intermediates will conduct their usual services, beginning sharp at 6 o'clock and closing at 7 o'clock. They will then go in a body to the Tabernacle.

This church is fully cooperating in the great evangelistic meetings in the Tabernacle under the leadership of Rev. John E. Brown. It is confidently expected that this will prove to be the greatest revival service ever held in this section.

The members of the various churches are asked to bring their regular envelope collections with them and put them in the general collection. Proper distribution will be made to respective treasurers.

LAYETTE MAKING IN MAY IS URGED

Chairman of Local Red Cross Chapter, Calls Attention to Need at Present

As has been announced several times, members of the Red Cross in Glendale have done considerable work in the preparation of layettes for the children of middle Europe who are clad only in rags or newspapers. Now a call has come from the Pacific division of the National Red Cross for all the chapters in its territory to specialize on layettes during the month of May.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the Glendale chapter, is passing on the call with the information that the materials ready for sewing can be obtained at her home. Already the work has been taken up by ladies of the Christian, Presbyterian and Congregational churches, and Mrs. Bartlett states that it can be done by groups of women or by women singly at home.

American Red Cross relief workers who have returned from Europe bring tales of acute suffering among young children whom they saw going about almost unclad in bitter winter weather. Red Cross officials declare there is instant need of 250,000 layettes and 2,000,000 garments for children up to the age of 14. Following is one of the stories that has found its way to Mrs. Bartlett and that she feels will touch the hearts of Glendale mothers:

The group of women gathered around the door of a hovel out of Vienna scattered as the American Red Cross nurse approached.

"A new baby there," one of the women volunteered.

The nurse went in and found the mother lying on a few handfuls of straw while a thin wail coming from a newspaper bundle near her told of the presence of the new arrival.

It was bitterly cold—so cold that the nurse found her fur coat quite comfortable, yet this baby had for its only covering a sheet of newspaper.

Taking off her flannel waist the nurse wrapped the wee mite of flesh until she could get hold of a layette. Thousands of layettes are needed in Vienna alone. That's why the American Red Cross is asking the American women to pick up their needles, not to make pajamas for the doughboys, but clothing for the desperately needy children of Europe. Two hundred and fifty thousand layettes are needed in addition to two million garments for older children.

HAVE YOU WORRIES? FINE! YOU'LL WIN!

Is your life beset with obstacles? Do you have troubles, worries and setbacks? Do you envy the fellow who lives on easy street? Then take heart for you are among those who gain and enjoy real success.

Such is the lesson taught by the new Paramount picture "The Easy Road," starring Thomas Meighan, which is being shown at the Palace Grand theater today.

A sailor-novelist, who has made a name for himself, weds a wealthy girl and settles down in her big country home on "Easy Street," in the belief that he will be able to work without interruption and write the masterpiece of his career.

But he loses his ambition and becomes an idler. And then comes the darkness, regeneration and the great lesson that in work are hidden real contentment, love and happiness.

MISS STERLING IS PLAYING GREAT GOLF

(By International News Service)

LONDON, April 23.—Miss Alexia Sterling, American woman golf champion, competed at Burnhill yesterday in the ladies' cup offered by "Golf Illustrated." Her opponent was Mrs. Temple Dobell, a former British golf champion. Other entrants in the tourney were Miss Cecelie Leitch, the British champion, Miss J. Wetherel and Miss Stoker.

TENDERS THANKS FOR ASSISTANCE GIVEN

Editor Glendale Press: In behalf of the drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, through your columns, I wish to express our appreciation and thanks to all those who helped to make our entertainment a success.

I want to thank our advertisers. This entertainment, given for the benefit of the Club House Fund, could not possibly have been the financial success it was, but for the business men and women of Glendale. They advertised in our program, not simply because of the publicity gained by such advertising, but because of their loyalty to our enterprise, which we all know will enhance the beauty of, and prove beneficial to, Glendale.

Our program presented practically a directory of the wide-awake and progressive business firms in Glendale. I believe in reciprocity. They loyally supported us, and we should reciprocate.

The beautiful and appropriate cover design on our program represented a great deal of thought and artistic skill on the part of L. G. Sherman, chairman of our program committee.

I want to thank our president, Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, for the hearty cooperation and kindly interest she showed in our undertaking.

The members of the casts, who so faithfully and harmoniously attended the rehearsals, received their just dues in the generous applause of a large and appreciative audience.

But there are others who worked quietly and unnoticed to whom much praise is due.

Mrs. Findlay, who so capably assumed the arduous task of the sale of tickets and the distribution of posters.

Miss Muller, and her art class at the Glendale high school, who produced the posters, works of art.

The ideas for these posters originated with L. G. Sherman and Dr. Chase, our business manager... I'm not supposed to mention this name, but indeed he's been a wonderful assistant.

I want to thank our patronesses for their support, and Mrs. Mabel F. Ocker for the splendid work she did in obtaining their subscriptions.

To Ray Galvin, especially for his untiring energy and skilful handling of the stage setting, which enabled us to give a smooth performance with none of the usual tiresome amateurish delays. To Mrs. W. L. Andrews, Mrs. J. Roger Bentley, Mrs. L. G. Sherman, Ray Galvin and Mr. and Mrs. Max Green, for their splendid assistance in securing the advertisements for the program.

I want to express my thanks to Mr. Olin of Universal City, who so generously loaned us the elegant and stately dining set which was used in "Fourteen." And to George Hastings who so capably assisted Mr. Galvin in the stage management.

And to you and others of the Glendale Press for the publicity you have so generously given us and the courtesy shown us in our printing.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. R. E. CHASE.

NOT UNLIKELY

"Henry," said Mrs. Dubwaite, "a ragged tramp came to the house this morning who could quote Shakespeare."

"And you gave him something to eat?"

"Yes."

"That's right. He may have been a retired schoolteacher."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

BOXING BOUTS AT LEGION MEETING

Crowd Enjoys Some Pretty Exhibitions of Skill by Local Athletes

An enthusiastic crowd was present at the meeting of the American Legion, Friday night. The Elks' band of about 14 pieces were present to furnish music and it was exceptionally good music.

The offering for the entertainment of the crowd included five boxing bouts and one wrestling match. The contests were judged in this manner: Three judges were appointed whose decisions were handed to the referee and then announced from the ring. The judges were Harry White of Packer & White, Reed Heustis and Joseph Griffin, who was also master of ceremonies. Serving as referee was Curley O'Connell, who is an old-time pugilist. Decidedly harmonious was the whole affair. There was absolutely no dissension and no criticism of the decisions rendered. The crowd was enthusiastic throughout the entire evening and contributed towards equipment and expenses of the evening a silver shower of $111.45.

The first bout was between Cliff Von Osdoll and Young Brewer. This contest resulted in a draw.

Bout No. 2 was between Ralph Hutchinson and Jim Hill, both high school students. They put up a very interesting contest but the match had to be declared off before it was completed because both boys injured their right hands.

The most spectacular event of the evening and the one that held the crowd on its toes throughout the entire three rounds was between Ralph Myers and Harry Loomis. The contest was awarded to Myers and judged by the demonstrations of the audience the decision was popular.

An extra bout was put no between Johnny Rand and "Brick" Bryant. These boys put up a very fine two-round exhibition which was declared a draw.

A wrestling match was presented for the approval of the audience, the contestants being local boys, Bill Pfeifer and Walter Hodge. They gave an exhibition of wrestling which lasted 15 strenuous minutes and was declared a draw.

The final bout of the evening was a three-round exhibition between Johnny Myers and "Doc" Wright. Although greatly outclassed "Doc" put up a very clever offensive and at times made Johnny extend himself to keep out of harm's way.

The affair was voted a huge success. Everybody went away pleased and they announced that the next boxing entertainment will be Friday evening, May 27. Judging from the attendance Friday night a larger hall will be needed to hold the crowd. The program was arranged by Gordon Clayton.

YOU MAY "BRING ON JOHNNY WILSON"

(By International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS, April 23.—"Bring on Johnny Wilson," was the challenge of Mike Gibbons today as he recalled his victory over Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis in ten rounds here night before last. Gibbons convinced himself by defeating Wiggins that he has not gone back despite a two-year layoff from the ring, and is eager to take on Wilson in a championship go. Gibbons won nine of the ten rounds with Wiggins and one was even.

J. F. M'CLISH BUYS ON BRAND BOULEVARD

John F. McClish, the geologist and mining engineer, residing at 410 East Maple street, this city, together with a few associates, has purchased from A. B. Cass of the Southern California Telephone Company, about 250 feet frontage on South Brand boulevard, at the southwest corner of the intersection of that thoroughfare and Maple street.

This is one of the best of the closein-corners, and already has some business establishments in operation near by.

The original intention of these gentlemen was to hold the property pending future developments in that district, but news of the deal began to leak out, and so many applications have been made for small lots at this splendid location, that subdivision is being seriously thought of.

It is an undeniable fact that the smaller businesses are finding it difficult to obtain desirable locations.

While the consideration involved in the transaction was not made public, it is understood that this frontage was acquired at a price which will enable the new owners to subdivide it into smaller parcels at a very low figure for this class of property, thus helping to satisfy the growing demand on the part of lesser concerns for building sites suitable to their needs.

There seems to be no doubt among those who should know, that the activity in Glendale business property is not only justified by conditions, but is only now at its beginning.

News of further interesting developments south of Broadway will be given out in a few days. Watch the Press for first-hand information first.
